المقدمة

Introduction

Awlad School is the combination of several techniques placed at the service of teaching. This approach aims to make the foundations of standard Arabic accessible to beginners.

The exercises – as well as the design, choice of typography and layout – have been created with the language skills to be acquired in mind. Learning is thus made easier thanks to an attractive layout.

You will find all the audio recordings of the words contained in this book on the website www.awlad-school.com and on the mobile app of the same name!

Important note

- We recommend giving as much importance to listening to and pronouncing Arabic sounds (with the help of the official app) as to reading and writing.
- We advise you to work with a teacher if you are starting from scratch.
- Learning to read and write Arabic can take less than 10 hours, but without regular practice the knowledge fades! Try to set aside time regularly for reading, so you can put your new skills into practice.

The alphabet – isolated letters

In this first part, we will study each letter that makes up the Arabic alphabet. The order chosen is the one found in most of the dictionaries available.

تنبيه!

Important note about the alif

- We have distinguished between ا and ء so that the student understands the difference between these two letters.
- The hamza is often found joined to the alif like this: أ. However, the hamza can have other supports and be written like this: ؤ ئ ـئـ.
It may even appear like this: ء, without any support.
- Very often, the alif is a long vowel – in other words, a lengthening of the vowel /a/, as in بَا.
- The alif can also serve as a support for the tanwīn "an", as in this example: بابًا.

Emphatic letters

You can find the audio for each letter on the Awlad School app, in the "Reading and Writing" chapter, interface 1

ا	It is a long /a/ vowel. It can simply accompany the hamza أ or the tanwin ً in silence.	ب	It is pronounced like the /b/ in boat or balloon.
ت	It is pronounced like the /t/ in table or top.	ث	It is the /th/ sound in think. Be careful to distinguish it from the letter س.
ج	It is pronounced like the /j/ in jackpot.	ح	It sounds like the breath you let out when your throat is burning. Be careful to distinguish it from ه.
خ	You can hear a rough, rasping airflow at the back of the throat: "krrr".	د	It is pronounced like the /d/ in date or dog.
ذ	It is the /th/ in this. Be careful to distinguish it from /j/.	ر	It is very close to the well-known rolled /r/.
ز	It is pronounced like the /z/ in zebra or zigzag.	س	It is pronounced like the /s/ in syrup or six.
ش	It is pronounced like the /sh/ in shop or sheep.	ص	It is an emphatic س.
ض	It is the /d/ in date, pronounced more strongly; it is an emphatic letter.	ط	It is an emphatic ت.
ظ	It is the /th/ in this, pronounced more strongly; it is an emphatic letter.	ع	Be careful to distinguish it from غ.
غ	It is pronounced like the /r/ in rat or rock; it is an emphatic letter.	ف	It is pronounced like the /f/ in flour or fire.
ق	It is an emphatic /k/.	ك	It is pronounced like the /k/ in koala or kiwi.
ل	It is pronounced like the /l/ in leopard.	م	It is pronounced like the /m/ in mimosa or mirabelle.
ن	It is pronounced like the /n/ in nougat or nose.	ه	It is an aspirated /h/, like when you laugh: ha ha ha.
و	It is pronounced like the /w/ in water.	ي	They are pronounced like the /y/ in yoghurt or yak.
ء	It is pronounced according to the short vowel that accompanies it: /a/, /u/ or /i/.	ة	If you pronounce the vowel, the sound of the letter is that of ت; otherwise, it is that of ه.

LESSON 02 درس

الأبجدية

The different forms of the letters

In writing, letters can take different forms depending on their position in the word (at the beginning, in the middle or at the end).

تنبيه!

Important note:

- In the Arabic alphabet, there are seven letters that do not join to the letter that follows, even when they are in the same word.
- At the end of some nouns, you may find a ت written like this: ـة or ـه. This is often the marker of the feminine. If you stop on this letter when reading, you pronounce it like o without a vowel.
